Profile

Katelyn attended Northern Illinois University where she received her undergraduate degree in Health and Human Sciences: Pre-Physical Therapy in 2018. She continued her education at NIU to pursue her Doctorate in Physical Therapy, where she graduated in 2021.

Katelyn believes strongly in creating an individualized and evidence based plan of care for her patients. She appreciates the collaborative approach and open communication between Physical Therapists and MD's at IBJI and believes this approach leads to great outcomes with her patients. Her goal is to get her patients back to doing what they love. Katelyn has experience treating a variety of orthopedic conditions, but also has experience treating vestibular conditions such as vertigo.

When she is outside of the clinic, Katelyn enjoys working out, playing volleyball, spending time with her family, and enjoying the outdoors - especially in the summer when it is warm and sunny.
